About town:

Visiting with 'Fritz' Reamer

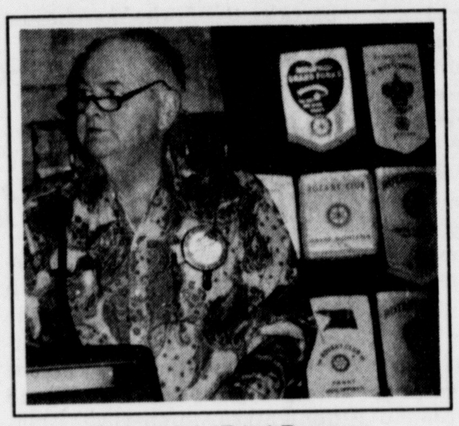
By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

The history of Clarksburg's Reamer family is a rich and interesting one.

George Washington Reamer owned and operated mines in the California Gold Run country and Howard J. Reamer Sr. was widely known in agricultural, highway and State Chamber of Commerce circles.

The current generation is headed by Howard J. Reamer Jr. -- "Fritz" to his friends. He is the son of the late Howard Jennings Reamer and Helen P. Parsons, who moved to Clarksburg and started farming there in late 1919. Mrs. Reamer's father was Issac Parsons, a well-known Hayward banker who also served as the land agent for the Netherlands Land Company which started the development of the Clarksburg area. He was also instrumental in laying out the levees which currently protect that portion of East Yolo.

It was during Parsons service as land agent that he purchased the property which has been called home by the Reamer family since 1920. Upon Howard and Helen's deaths in the 1960s, the original 1,300 acres was split up among their five children, and Fritz is still farming approximately 320 acres east of Jefferson Boulevard. "Actually, we grow grapes now," explained Fritz. "We used to grow tomatoes, corn, wheat and safflower, but in the late '70s, all the farmers who had big fancy houses seemed to be growing grapes, so I decided to give them a try. They're expensive to get going, but it can be a pretty profitable business when things are going right. We're producing six or seven tons of grapes on about 127 acres of land now, and we have contracts with Glenn Ellen and Gallo. Farmers never get rich, but we've always loved the ranching and farming lifestyle."



Howard J. 'Fritz' Reamer

The Reamer Ranch is well-known to most West Sacramentans. It has beautiful groves of oak trees and has often hosted the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner. "My parents were very active in their community," said Fritz, "and my wife and I like to help out when we can, too. My father and mother both believed in public service. He served on the local school board and like me, was a Rotarian. My mother was very active in state and county Republican politics and served as a delegate to the party's national conventions during the Eisenhower and Nixon years."

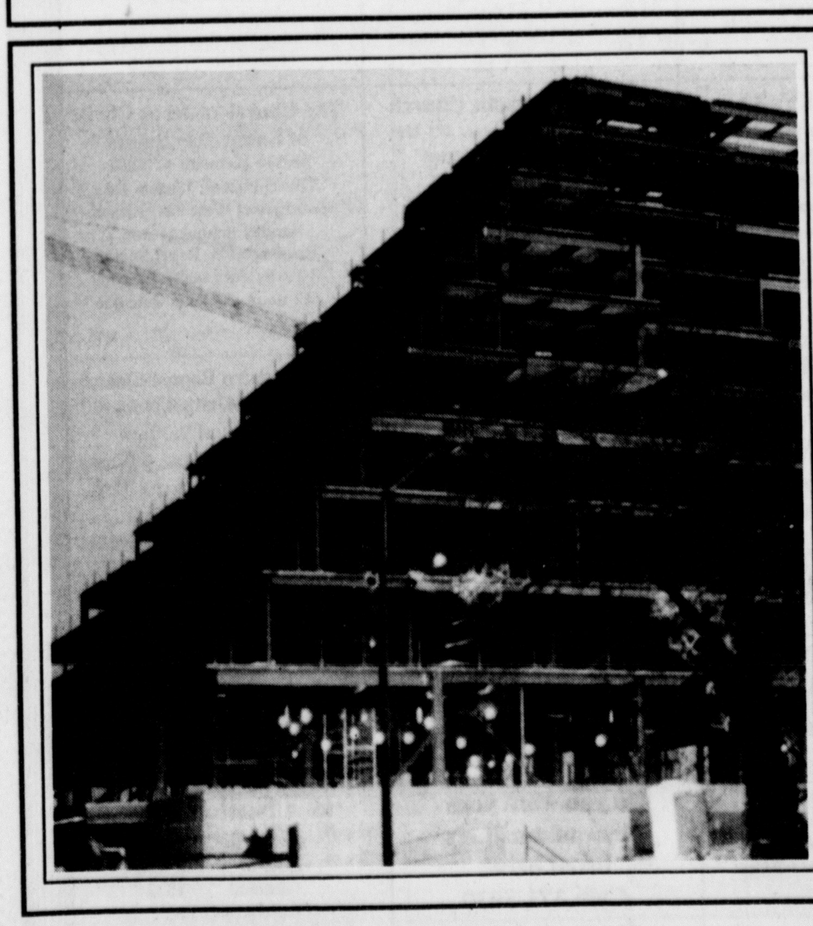
'One of the returning vets I gave a job to was a kid named Frank Ramos. . . He's done pretty good for himself over the years.'

Farming has always been in Fritz's blood, but when he returned from the service in the early 1950's, he opened up a gas station in Sacramento on 65th and Broadway. "One of the returning vets I gave a job to was a kid named Frank Ramos," said Fritz with a smile. "He's done pretty good for himself over the years, and it's fun telling people I was the one who gave him his start."

Fritz and his wife, Katherine, have three children -- a son, James, and daughters Anna and Helen. "My son is going to stay in farming, and one of my daughters boards horses on the ranch," said Fritz. "It's been a good life and it's nice to see the next generation enjoying the land, too."

With West Sacramento a city now and development taking place throughout East Yolo, the Reamer Ranch continues to offer its owner the best of both the past and the present.

"My parents were both members of pioneer California families," said Fritz. "They came here to create a good life for themselves and their children and they certainly accomplished that. My wife and I have tried to carry on the tradition and we hope our children will do the same. Thankfully, nothing much changes out my way. I'm 70-years-old now, and it's been a great life. The land around here has been good to us, and I'm very proud of the role the Reamer family played in its development."



Money Store up for sale

Officials at the Money Store, the finance company building a regional headquarters in West Sacramento, have confirmed reports published in regional and national newspapers saying that the company is for sale.

The sale effort follows disappointing company performance.

Impact of any sale on the riverfront West Sacramento building (shown under construction in December, at left) is not known. Occupancy is scheduled for 1998.

Yolo County transportation board recommends $10 million funding for city interchange

The Yolo County Transportation District announced Friday that a $10.064 million improvement project for the Enterprise Blvd./I-80 interchange in West Sacramento will be among the items recommended to the Sacramento Area Council of Governments (SACOG) for approval.

If SACOG approves the list as expected on March 5, the list will go to the California Transportation Commission for adoption in June.

Other projects on the list include a $6 million allowance for right-of-way acquisition on the I-5/113 connectors in Woodland, $527,000 for replacing to bridges and $300,000 for widening part of Rd. 32 in the unincorporated part of Yolo. Some of the projects are continued over several years.

The funding is through the State Transportation Improvement Program (STIP), with money from state and federal taxes on gas. This is the first year the Yolo County Transportation District Board has dealt with investment in projects other than transit, said a board spokesperson.

Local school graduate runs for California assembly seat

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Sandee Felley, a 1967 graduate of James Marshall High School, is running in the Republican primary for the 5th Assembly District, which includes the northern Sacramento County communities of Folsom, Fair Oaks, Carmichael, Citrus Heights, Orangevale, Rio Linda, North Highlands and Elverta.

Felley was raised in West Sacramento and still has strong ties to the area.

"My parents have lived in West Sacramento for almost 40 years now, and many of my friends are still residents, too," she said. "It was a wonderful place to grow up and I still enjoy the time I spend there."

Felley is currently the president of the Elverta School Board. She also spent six years as Assemblywoman Bev Hansen's legislative assistant, was the chief of staff for Republican Leader Pat Nolan, served Assemblywoman Barbara Alby for three years as her senior consultant, and is presently a legislative assistant to Assemblywoman Lynne Leach.

"My background in the Assembly has taught me how to be an effective legislator," said Felley, "and I look forward to bringing some common sense, honesty and integrity to the political process. I'm especially interested in improving our education system. The education code that currently governs our schools is larger than most phone books. And just as in business, good teachers must be rewarded, and bad teachers should look for another line of work."

SANDEE FELLEY

Some other issues which concern Felley are health care, where she wants to see legislation that will make HMOs more responsive to patients; better transportation infrastructure so Sacramento can avoid the kind of gridlock which torments commuters in the Bay Area and Los Angeles; and greater flood protection, which means providing enough funds to adequately enhance and expand the current levee system.

The acknowledged Republican party front-runner for the 5th Assembly District is Sacramento County Supervisor Dave Cox, but Felley is confident that her grass roots campaign and hard working volunteers can bring her victory.

"If this race were just about raising money and getting endorsements, my chances of winning would be slight. But as I continue to meet with the hard-working people of my district, I'm more and more confident that the voters are truly looking for a straight shooter, not just another slick politician. The health of our democracy depends on average people donating their time and resources to candidates they believe in and respect, and those are the kind of people I'm proud to say are part of my campaign."

Felley also sees the years she spent growing up in West Sacramento as a definite asset. "Growing up in a place like West Sacramento really grounds a person. You learn what's important in life and what isn't. You learn how to help your neighbor and appreciate the freedoms we all share. Most important of all, you learn the kind of small-town values I hope to bring to the state legislature."

Anyone interested in contacting Felley's campaign can do so by writing to Friends of Sandee Felley, P.O.Box 604, Elverta, CA 95626.

County school chief won't run again

Dr. Elizabeth Zemmels, Yolo County's Superintendent of Schools, announced this month she will not be running for a third tirm. She plans to retire from 31 years of public education at the end of her second term as superintendent next January.

"It has been a privilege to provide educational leadership in a county that is so committed to the quality of life for children and their families," she was quoted in a Feb. 11 press release. "I am very proud of what the County Office of Education is accomplishing in fulfilling its strategic mission of meeting current and future needs of Yolo County by serving as a regional resource to students, parents, school districts, agencies and business through collaborative leadership, support and services."

Zemmels announced her support for Suzanne Falzone, an assistant superintendent in Zemmels' office, in the campaign for the next superintendent's position.

"I love my job, but with Dr. Zemmels' impending retirement, I believe that our entire organization must continue to fulfill our mission," a press release quoted Falzone. "We must meet the current and future needs of Yolo County as a resource to students, parents, school districts, agencies and businesses through collaborative leadership, support and services."

Key to a good marriage is simple: do what she says

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Last Saturday afternoon I was seated at a table in a downtown Sacramento fast food restaurant wolfing down a couple of tacos and a chicken burrito when I couldn't help but notice that the guy sitting across from me was letting his food get cold. He had been seated at the table when I first sat down, but he had yet to take a single bite from his plate of enchiladas, beans and rice. Instead, he was staring down at a copy of the Sacramento Bee, mumbling something to himself and slowly shaking his head from side to side. He didn't even seem to notice that I had joined him, but that didn't prevent me from saying, "Is everything okay?"

He finally looked up at me, nodded his head, and said, "Yeah, I guess so."

"There was no other place to sit," I tried to explain, sensing that he would rather be alone. "All the other tables are full."

"No problem," he said, returning his attention to the newspaper.

"So, what's in the news?" I asked, figuring that some small talk was called for.

"Look at that headline!" he shouted, shoving the front page of the newspaper towards me.

A little startled by the sudden change in his demeanor, I glanced down at the paper and read the first headline that caught my eye, which was 'U.N. leader in Iraq for last-ditch talks'. "You mean this one about Iraq?" I asked him.

"No, no, no," he said, pointing out my mistake, "the one next to it!"

I looked back down at the newspaper and next to a photograph of U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan and Iraqi Deputy Prime Minister Tariq Aziz was the Bee's second lead story, and its headline read, 'Want love to last? Just do as wife asks'.

"Oh," I said, taking a big bite out of my burrito so I could use the chewing time to quickly scan the article to see what the big deal was all about. It began with the words, 'Husbands, forget all that psychobabble about active listening and validation. If you really want your marriage to last a long time, the newest advice from psychologists is simple: Just do what your wife says. Go ahead, give in to her'.

When I began to smile, my table-mate said, "What's so funny?"

"Nothing," I assured him.

He yanked back the newspaper, turned it to another page where the article he was interested in had apparently been continued, and said, "They studied 130 married couples for six years to find out what makes a marriage work, and you want to know what they found out?"

"What?"

"Just listen to this," he said as he began to read, 'The marriages that did work well all had one thing in common -- the husband was willing to give in to the wife. We found that only those men who are accepting of influence from their wives are ending up in happy, stable marriages'."

"And that surprises you?" I decided to venture, having figured out long, long ago that any meaningful relationship between a man and a woman is usually based on how well a woman camouflages and packages what she wants her man to do, and how willing he is to accept the illusion that his input has any influence whatsoever in major decision making.

"And that's not all," he angrily continued, "it says here that couples who go to marriage counseling are no more likely to stay together than those who don't. It says 'Marital therapy has relapse rates so high that the entire enterprise may be in a state of crisis. People that have undergone such therapy are the least satisfied among people who have undergone any form of psychotherapy'."

"Really? Is that right?"

"Do you have any idea how much money I've spent going to marriage counselors?" he asked me, abruptly shoving the newspaper away from him. I shook my head 'no'. "Thousands and thousands of dollars! And they just kept saying the same damn thing over and over again -- that I have a communications problem -- that I'm a lousy listener. All those hundreds of hours of talking about things I didn't want to talk about.

And now they're saying it was all a big waste of time to begin with. They're saying that the only way to make a marriage work is to do what your wife tells you to do. Now who in the world can do that without going nuts? And why didn't they just tell me that the first time I walked into the damn office? I could have saved myself a small fortune!"

"Well," I said, trying to say something positive, "I'm sure your wife and you must have gained something from going to marriage counseling."

"What wife? I'm divorced!"

Wanted: surviving suffragettes

From Women in History Month Project (March)

The Yolo County Women in History Month Committee is seeking women who were a part of the suffragette movement. During the month of March various activities will celebrate the women's rights movement, which began with the signing of the Declaration of Sentiments at Seneca Falls, New York, 150 years ago.

Women who took part in the organized activities 75 years ago will be recognized at the community lunch, to be held March 26 at 11:30 a.m. at the Hotel Woodland.

If you or someone you know participated in the marches or other events, please call Betty Martin at 666-6940.

City moves discussion on Fifth Street widening options, fate of oak trees, to March 4 agenda

A city council meeting to discuss options on widening Fifth St. in West Sacramento at the entrance to the proposed Lighthouse residential development has been postponed from Feb. 18 (tonight) to March 4. The council will meet at 7 p.m. at 2101 Stone Blvd. to address this and other issues on that evening.

The delay is intended to give the Lighthouse developer adequate time to respond to city options for the project, said a city spokesperson.

A number of local residents protested initial plans for the street widening, which called for the removal of a number of large oak trees.

Raider tennis team gears up

From River City High School

The River City High School Tennis Team has been practicing in between the recent storms in preparation for tomorrow's 1998 season opener at home against Bret Harte. After back-to-back Golden Empire League Championships in 1996 and 1997, including last year's undefeated romp through the league, the focus this year is on an unprecedented "Threepeat." This is the twentieth year of River City athletics, and no varsity team, in any sport, has ever won three consecutive outright league championships. The softball teams under Chris Tyler won or shared five straight titles from 1984-88, and several other sports have won two-in-a-row, but none were ever able to Threepeat.

Raider Coach Dave Brooks, now in his ninth season at the helm, says that this year's team is anxious to begin playing matches. "We're ready to go. We're looking to make some history once league play starts in a few weeks. But for now we'll just concentrate on the nonleague matches and see if some of the other streaks continue." Streaks such as 36 regular season wins in-a-row and 24 straight regular season home wins. The last time the Raiders lost a non-playoff home contest was April 25, 1995. This year's seniors were just freshmen beginners back then.

The tasks will not be easy. 1997 saw the graduation of some of the school's all-time greatest players who were such a big part of the team's recent successes. Gone are top players Meuy Seachao -- 64 wins and only 16 losses over four years including last year's 31-1 mark in singles and the league's MVP; Khonthavy Phouanglasy -- 69 wins in four seasons; Bethany Monroe -- the winningest girls doubles player in school history with a career record of 54-7 and two GEL league doubles titles. On the boys side of the team, 1997 GEL Boys Singles Champion Ahmad Fazel is now playing for Sac City College. He won 46 matches in his three year RC career. Peter Santizo and his 50 wins in four years are gone as well.

Still, it's not as if the Raider cupboard is completely bare. The '98 squad will be led by a quartet of seniors with Douangchanh Lattasima and Aenoy Xayasone on the girls' side and Jeff Wright and Sarom Phoung on the boys'. Lattasima was a perfect 24-0 last year during the regular season, winning 9 times at #1 singles and 15 at #2. Xayasone was Monroe's partner at #1 girls doubles when the pair won everything the GEL had to offer. Wright won 17 matches at the #2 boys singles position and Phoung equalled that total at #1 boys doubles.

To this foursome, the Raider lineup will be bolstered by a solid group of juniors led by Phoungeun Souvannaphoungeun, Phoung's #1 boys doubles partner from last year, Aaron Potnick, who won 13 of his 15 matches at #2 boys doubles, and Loan Nguyen who was 14-1 at #2 girls doubles. Fellow juniors Khampheng Insixiengmay and Sue Yang, each in their third year on the team, also figure prominently in the Raider varsity lineup.

Following tomorrow's season opening home contest against Bret Harte, the Raiders travel up to Jackson Friday to take on Argonaut and host Vanden next Tuesday. All three matches begin at 3 p.m.

In NFL news, the 49ers lost the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year in 1997 Dana Stubblefield to free agency. Stubblefield signed a six-year deal worth $36 million with the Washington Redskins. Do you remember how the 49ers acquired Stubblefield? He was the first round draft pick the Chiefs threw in for Joe Montana. The 49ers already knew they couldn't afford Stubblefield at defensive tackle so they signed Green Bay Packer free agent Gabe Wilkins. The 49ers also lost defensive back Tyronne Drackford to the Panthers but are looking at signing the Colts all-pro cornerback Antonio Langham. The Raiders are thinking of signing the controversial linebacker Bryan Cox! That's all the Raiders need -- more 15 yard penalties!

The Kings (24-32) finally pulled the trigger and made a dramatic trade involving Michael Smith and Bobby Hurley. The Kings acquired power forward Otis Thorpe and reserve guard Chris Robinson. Great deal for the Kings!

In World Cup soccer action, the U.S. National Soccer team is in Brussels preparing for a match Wednesday against the Belgian National Team. The U.S. team, which lost 2-0 to Holland last week, is thinking about avenging its 1-0 loss to arch rival Mexico on April 8 in Los Angeles. Both World Cup bound teams could benefit from another hard fought tune-up match. The last game drew 91,000 fans to the L.A. Coliseum.

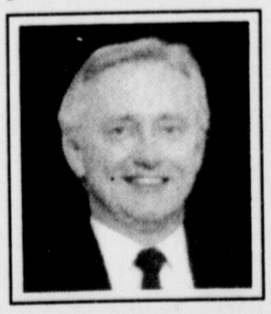
John Kane's Professional Tips on Home Buying



Buying a home soon?

Whether you plan to purchase your first home, move up to a larger one or buy a new one, what steps can be taken to insure a satisfying, successful home buying experience?

The first step might be to evaluate your present situation. Do you currently own a home? If so, will it be necessary to sell before making another purchase? Are you renting? How much time is left on your lease?

If you already own a home, start by asking a REALTOR to provide a market analysis of your home. It should include a suggested price range, terms, a list of needed improvements, probable selling time, and a "net" sheet showing the proceeds you may expect to receive when it sells. Once you know what to expect from the sale of your present home, you will be better prepared to make an informed decision about another home. If you are leasing or renting now, the expiration date of the lease will help you set a timetable for your purchase.

Step two: ask a REALTOR for a list of mortgage lenders who perform "prequalification" interviews. This procedure allows the lender to determine the maximum mortgage for which you qualify. By obtaining this pre-purchase determination of available mortgage loans, you can begin your home search with the advance knowledge needed to purchase the home of your choice. You will also know the amount of your down payment and other closing costs.

Next, make a list of features you would like included in your home. Write down desirable locations you would like to consider, an acceptable price range, number of bedrooms, and baths, and any other amenities. Be specific. It is unlikely that you will find a home that offers every single feature you desire, however, without a list, it will be more difficult to recognize homes which meet your expectations.

Finally, provide the information you have gathered to the REALTOR of your choice, and ask to be shown a selection of homes which match your criteria. By following a logical, step-by-step purchase agenda, you can enjoy a worry-free purchase.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Most debates are worthwhile debates

One of the bigger controversies of 1997 in West Sacramento swirled around the local motel industry and what effect, if any, some of the more troubled motels and hotels had on the city's crime problems.

This debate has been ongoing for some years, but was reignited by a proposal from City Councilman Christopher Cabaldon, who proposed raising taxes paid by hotel-goers and using that money to pay for upgrades and conversions of motel property, among other things.

The response from the local motel/hotel industry was, to put it politely, hostile. In fact, the discussion highlighted a difference of opinion between Cabaldon and the motel industry; a difference, in fact, between the motel industry and much of the rest of the city.

The industry, according to statements of local hotel/motel officials, doesn't subscribe to the view that there are too many motel rooms in West Sacramento or that some (nobody says "all") of the local motels house people involved with drugs, prostitution or other crimes. In fact, they seem to feel that the solution to any problems is that the city rebate some of the money already raised through taxes on hotel residents.

This money would pay for marketing the motels. Marketing the motels would be all the solution that's needed.

Cabaldon's proposal was flawed, and was received somewhat poorly by the rest of the council. It did not come close to adoption.

But the debate was a good thing anyway. West Sacramento learned about some differing views of a long-running civic problem and how difficult it might be to resolve those problems.

Council members in West Sacramento too often work quietly and in concert with each other, and while an independent proposal from one of them tends to find an uphill battle, it is also often the only way to find a creative solution.

West Sacramento needs some creative solutions. If an occasional lively debate, or even a bruised ego or two, is what's needed to get to those creative solutions, then bring 'em on.

Letters to the Editor

Herr daughter's an author

At long last, after months of waiting, I have a proud announcement to make. No, not the birth of a first grandchild -- but the next best thing. My oldest daughter's first book is hot off the presses..."Healing the Pain of Pet Loss," by Kimberly Smith. I sent several copies to Turner Library to be checked out by any local readers seeking solace.

It has been a long and harrowing eighteen months since my daughter signed her book contract. I have received many an angry or tearful phone call following her latest "negotiation" (read confrontation) with her editor. The original title "The Fragile Circle" ended up on the cutting room floor with a number of other precious pages. Each marketing "compromise" was a dagger in my daughter's heart. My skills of motherly diplomacy were forced to a new plateau -- especially when I agreed with her editor but didn't dare say so!

The final product is a wonderful little book that will help anyone grieving the loss of a family pet, be it a dog or cat (or even a bunny, turtle, or snake). Kim and her husband (an Air Force officer currently en route to Saudi Arabia) have 5 cats and 3 dogs and a deep love for animals that makes her book personal and easy to read.

One warning, keep a box of kleenex handy. You'll need it.

Delinquency Prevention

On January 24, 1998, the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Commission conducted a Workshop during which it formulated its draft goals for 1998/99. At its regularly scheduled meeting on February 9, 1998, the Commission formally considered and adopted the goals. The Commission encourages the News-Ledger in the development of future programs and priorities, to take these goals into consideration.

As Chair of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Commission, and on behalf of its membership, I wish to express the appreciation of the Commission for the work of the News-Ledger as such pertains to efforts to continuously improve Juvenile Justice Programs. Because of the assistance of the News-Ledger and other various agencies, the 1996/97 goals established by the Commission have been met. The Commission looks forward to expanded and improving program partnerships on behalf of youth and families of Yolo County.

Please feel free to address any questions or comments to me directly or through Commission staff, Dean Alderman, Chief Probation Officer at (530) 666-8796.

New city bus shelters

At last week's meetings in Woodland and West Sac I learned more about the 6 new bus shelters West Sac is scheduled to receive from the federal transportation agency...at no initial cost. But was told it costs about $17,000 per year to maintain those 6 bus shelters and our Department of Public Works "just doesn't have that money in its budget and may not be able to accept the shelters for that reason (or words to that effect)." Vandalism, spilled drinks come to mind.

How to solve this problem? Some suggestions:

1) Why don't we sell advertising space on those windows/panels of plastic where it would not interfere with visions between passengers/riders and bus drivers? (And use some of that space to notify public of bus schedules, important phone numbers and reminders that those who vandalize cost taxpayers money!)

2) Volunteer groups, including those who seek more members, etc. Thrift stores seeking donations of clothing, furniture, etc. If the folks they help can fix items for resale (that are clean), would maintaining bus shelters be that different? Thrift store ads would equal more goods' donations, which would equal more money to them...make sense?

3) Those who break the law are often assigned as members of "clean-up crews."

4) If it costs $17,000.00/year to maintain 6 shelters, it must cost $34,000.00 or so to maintain the 12 or shelters we already have. So if we take that $34 grand plus potential advertising revenues from all of our shelters including the "advertisements for (more) revenue" from selling ads plus savings from (2) and (3), we should have more than enough if we must pay "regular retailers" for window/panel repair. And maybe those making the repairs would do so for less if they were allowed to advertise at those shelters, too.

The above should offer enough elements for a successful recipe to allow West Sac to receive the proposed 6 new shelters with no worry as to "how we're going to get the money to regularly maintain them." The ongoing problem would have an ongoing solution -- and then some to spare. Problem? No problem.

Prior to installing new shelters, the powers that be should check with:

1) 500 Jefferson Blvd. -- where County Social Services and West Sac's Social Security office is now located. Relocate stop to south side facing north for rain protection and in shade for summer heat protection; 2) At the park on Stone Blvd.; 3) Probably 2 at 920-930 Westacre Rd./School Adm., where parking lots are bulging! 4) Across

For cruelty to animals a warrant has been sworn to by H. J. Winters of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals against Max Greeman. It appears that Greeman badly injured a dog owned by Clyde Crenshaw, who advised Winters of the cruelty. From accounts at hand it appears that Greeman was annoyed by the dog and while in a fit of temper used a screw driver to punish the animal, cutting a large hole in the dog's side from which he apparently suffered severely. On examining the wound inflicted with the screw driver, Winters swore to a warrant for Greeman's arrest. Judge Barry has placed the trial to take place next Thursday, March 12, and Greeman has demanded a jury trial.

Being one of the first candidates from Washington to enter the Elks' Lodge he was given more than was coming to him, and because of his good nature the initiating team put it on a little stronger than usual. Now Ed is wearing a very handsome badge, which was presented to him yesterday by some of his friends and relatives in Washington. He is even so proud of the badge that he wears it during his working hours.

Mrs. May Grace arrived yesterday from New York to spend several weeks at the home of Mrs. M. DeCosta on Anne street. Manuel Grace, her son, has been at the DeCosta home for some considerable time and lately, when the young baby of Mrs. DeCosta was baptized, Manuel took the place of godfather. Mrs. Grace is delighted with what she has seen of California so far and may decide to remain here permanently and bring her family with her.

In an article printed in last week's Independent relating to the arrest of Jack Stoutenburg for selling Yen Shee, it was reported that at the time of the arrest Jack had on his person, or rather displayed on his vest, a badge purporting to be a deputy constable's badge or a deputy sheriff's badge. Supervisor Henry Buckingham asked that the statement be corrected because at no time had Stoutenburg carried a badge and at no time was he deputized as a constable or a sheriff. If the arresting officers mistook anything that Stoutenburg had on his person at the time of his arrest for a badge they were simply mistaken.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Buckingham have returned home from Stockton, where they were called by the illness of their daughter, Mrs. Eva Johnson.

BARRY TO RETIRE FROM TOWNSHIP JUSTICE OF WASHINGTON

At the meeting of the board of supervisors of Yolo County held on Monday, March 2, Judge Barry offered his resignation from the position of township justice which he has held during the last eleven years.

With a great deal of regret the people of this district received this announcement because during the time of his incumbency he has administered the affairs of the justice court to the great advantage of the people and without a scintilla of criticism.

Never once has there been found the least fault with the decisions rendered by Judge Barry and seldom or never did criminals who appeared before him find fault with his decisions.

In his hand exact justice received justice. There was no leniency. There was no favoritism. There was no revenge or spirit of playing even. The law book was his guide and he administered that without favoritism or harshness.

On tendering his resignation to the board of supervisors it was refused. Those officials would not hear of it. They told him they could get no man to take his place or fill the position with justice to it as he had done during a period of nearly twelve years. Nevertheless, Judge Barry was obdurate and refused to continue in the position.

Speaking to the Independent he said yesterday:

"Failing health is the principal cause for my resignation and in addition the work of this office has been growing to such an extent that I cannot do it justice. The county government act allows only a salary of $65 per month for the township justice here. The entire time of the man who fills the place must be given over to the duties of the office and I cannot see my way clear to devote my entire time to the position with that salary.

"I am advancing in years, also, and the infirmities of age do not permit me to continue in the vigorous pursuit of settling all the affairs of the community."

Judge Barry will be sixty-seven years of age on the 29th day of May next. He was born and raised in Washington in the house now occupied by Mr. Colbert, custodian of the water works.

To the position of township justice he was appointed by the board of supervisors of Yolo County at the recommendation of the late supervisor, Wm. J. Leinberger, on November 14, 1913. He filled the unexpired term of the late C. A. Simpson, and since that time was elected three times successively.

Not only has he attended to the duties of the office he filled in the administration of justice, but he was made the arbiter by volunteer selection for all the disagreeableness of the people of the community. His home was an easy mark for any person who was in trouble and, night or day, there might be seen at his doorstep people of all nationalities, of all sex and creeds, and all colors, who had troubles they wanted settled.

His sense of justice was acute in a large degree and many a home was blessed through the decisions rendered by him even outside of his courtroom.

Although a great joker, full of fun and merriment, full of the laugh of happiness and the joy of good health, Judge Barry never wavered in his sense of justice, and the fact remains that never once was a decision rendered by him reversed by a superior court.

To a consistent offender he was merciless. To the frail and weak he showed mercy. He would rather lift up than throw down and he followed that policy unwaveringly.

To prove his severity it might be mentioned here that during the month of February just past he turned into the county treasury of Yolo County fines in the amount of $447.00. During January his fines amounted to $184.00. During December his fines amounted to $432.

KNIGHTS LANDING TO ORGANIZE CHAMBER

Knights Landing, Yolo Co., March 3. Plans for organizing an active chamber of commerce with a view of stimulating trade and engendering a better spirit of co-operation between the storekeepers and ranchers, are to be discussed at a public meeting at the Knights Landing grammar school tomorrow evening. It is claimed that Knights Landing is losing considerable trade and business because of the lack of an energetic effort to go after it.

County Superintendent of Schools Finds Children and Girls Have Not Been Insulted on Way to School

At the meeting of the Washington Boosters' Club last Tuesday evening in the town hall communications from the county superintendent of schools, Miss Harriett S. Lee, and from District Attorney Geo. T. Kern, were received that would indicate the children attending the Woodland high school from the town of Washington and using the Sacramento Northern Railroad, had not been insulted.

The communication from Miss Lee to the secretary of the Boosters' Club, Mrs. Ethel R. Palm, reads:

February 28, 1925.

Mrs. Ethel R. Palm, Secretary,
Washington Boosters' Club,
Broderick, California.

Dear Mrs. Palm:

I certainly am interested in your problem, for problem it is.

I went out to the Woodland high school yesterday and interviewed the girls who come from Broderick and could get no evidence upon which the girls could cause an arrest and prosecution, although I did find that they have been annoyed by men in that section of the town.

I feel proud of the womanly way in which they have met these annoyances.

One of the girls told me that vagrants are using the "Sacramento Northern" station for sleeping quarters and even if it were raining she did not feel that she could enter the station.

I would suggest that you send your constable down there to arrest some of them for sleeping in a public place not provided for that purpose constitutes a clear case of vagrancy.

This might stop that annoyance.

Sincerely,
HARRIETT S. LEE.

The communication received from the district attorney refers again to the difficulty of suppressing crime in this section even with stool pigeons, although these may be permanently hired to accomplish the task.

The communication from Mr. Kern was also read to the club and reads:

February 28, 1925.

Mrs. Ethel R. Palm,
P. O. Box, 338,
Broderick, California.

My dear Mrs. Palm:

I have your letter as secretary of the Washington Boosters' Club and have noted with particular attention the information and suggestions which you have presented.

The county superintendent of schools, Miss Lee, will at once interview the high school students coming from Broderick and obtain from them the details of their experiences, as you have described, and whatever action the information they give will authorize will be taken forthwith.

We have heretofore, if you remember, had serious difficulty with gambling in Washington and it seems this particular business has been resumed in another location and is probably worse than ever. I cannot write you all the details of the steps I have in mind which I think would be practicable and presumably you do not care for such details but are hoping for and expecting substantial results. I believe you will not be disappointed.

To accomplish anything will require the steady and persistent teamwork of all the officers and perhaps the assistance of some private citizens. I could not do it alone with the aid of stool pigeons and the people of that character. I have no doubt I will receive the co-operation of all concerned and that lawlessness can be driven out of your town. However, a big territory seems to have been invaded by a particular element and I have been informed and am inclined to believe that the section between the levee and the river between the bridges is a worse place than any other and being a sort of no-man's land we are not able to accomplish anything by means of attacking the owners of the land as may be possible in the case of the Chinese element.

Yours very sincerely,
GEO. T. KERN,
District Attorney.

Following the reading of the communications it was moved and seconded that an investigating committee of five men be appointed by the chairman to investigate the Chinese situation in Washington and take it before the grand jury of Yolo County.

This committee will be named by the chairman, Ray Peek, who was named by the president of the Boosters' Club to head the committee.

This committee is requested to go ahead immediately and make an investigation as to what could be done to prevent the continuance of gambling near the town of Washington but actually outside the town limits.

A good deal of discussion was indulged in by the members of the club on this question. Practically the entire meeting was occupied in discussing ways and means to stop, prevent or remedy the conditions prevailing now.

T. D. Slaven became a member of the club and paid his dues. He suggested that the secretary write to J. B. Rowray, manager of the Sacramento Northern properties in Sacramento, or Geo. F. Dietrich, president of the Sacramento Northern Railroad in San Francisco.

Attention was particularly drawn to the salary being paid Constable Frank Wilson to devote all his time to the suppression of vice in this section of the county. His salary is $70 per month, out of which he must pay rent and support a wife and family, yet he is expected to devote all his time to the prevention of vice consta-station building of the Sacramento Northern Railroad and had been an annoyance to the school children attending the Woodland high school. As a matter of fact the children were afraid to use the station building because canned heat victims were laying around sleeping on the floor.

To the Independent Constable Wilson said yesterday evening, that so far as he could find out none of the school children had been insulted and had not placed themselves so they might be insulted but had kept away from the station building used by these derelicts.

The grand jury of Yolo County will convene on March 12 and if the investigating committee of the Boosters' Club sees fit to make appearance before the grand jury body, there is no doubt that immediate and imperative steps will be taken to regulate the conditions prevailing on the river levee north and south of the M street bridge.

ACTIVE PROMOTION WORK BEING DONE IN WESTGATE

Yesterday's report in Westgate from the McAnulty interests showed sales of eighteen houses or homes, three places of business and one factory site.

Although salesmen have been busy on the promotion work only a few days the results are so encouraging to the promoters that seldom or never have they ever run into such encouragement as they are receiving in West Sacramento, or Westgate.

Actively engaged in the work of the district Henry S. Judson, a partner with the McAnulty Brothers, declares that he never at any time received so encouraging evidences as he has received during his incumbency in the position of promoter of the interests of Westgate.

And Judson is not a novice at his job.

During fifteen years he was colonizing agent for the Great Northern Railroad under the administration of James J. Hill, and during that time he promoted two townsites and was very instrumental in putting the land policy of the railroad on a firm and substantial basis.

In Texas Mr. Judson promoted the building of two canals and was the means of colonizing 100,000 acres of land in the Lone Star State.

He was formerly a banker and is well aware of the possibilities that can be achieved in Westgate.

At the present time a number of salesmen are busy promoting the ideals of the new owners. New signs have been erected on the townsite and flags have been placed to indicate boundaries and sales already made.

Indeed the district has taken on a new appearance of life, a new appearance of vigor and an activity not witnessed there since the West Sacramento Company started the building of its headquarters.

Speaking to the Independent, Mr. Judson said:

"I can see no reason why this section should not go ahead with a bound and a leap and a run and a gallop.

"When the North Sacramento district was under a foot or two of water there was not enough water in this section of the Sacramento Valley to dampen the tires of my automobile.

"Where spinach, alfalfa, beans, barley, fruit and almost any crop can be grown I notice that it is necessary to blast the hardpan of North Sacramento to plant a tree.

"And yet North Sacramento has gone ahead without reason, without boosting, without merit.

"I am not making invidious comparisons but I do wish to draw attention to the wonderful possibilities of this section as in comparison with other sections that are being sold in and around Sacramento.

"Here production is at its highest. Here we do not need water for irrigation. Here the land does not bake. Here the sunshine produces wealth and the soil helps it."

If there was ever an enthusiastic promoter that was proud of the job that he has undertaken it is Henry S. Judson.

He is not entirely depending on sales made locally and is now getting in communication with eastern connections that should bring to this section of California hundreds of families.

Under his direction, Mr. G. Garnett has charge of the sales force.

One home is partially built south of the highway in Westgate. Five more will be started next Monday and soon thereafter there will be in course of construction not less than eighteen or twenty homes.

SACRAMENTO, NOT YOLO MUST CARE FOR PLAGUE VICTIM

An aged Mexican, suffering with tuberculosis, was to have left yesterday with his wife for Mexico, Yolo County having consented to pay for their transportation. But when it came time for their train to leave, the Mexican couple was missing. It was later discovered that the white plague victim had become a patient at the Sacramento County hospital.

Yolo County will be spared the transportation bill of $99.

Both varsity teams make playoffs

Updates and Briefs

New English Standards

Think you can handle honors English? Want to try a college prep English class? Now, in order to be placed in these classes students must qualify based on SAT 9 scores and a writing test administered by the English department.

In order to qualify for college prep classes, a student must be reading at grade level. To qualify for honors classes, a student must be reading above grade level. Students must also have a C or better in both semesters of their previous English class.

Tests will be held March 11 in English classes. Makeup tests will be held March 17.

New Math Standards

The math department this year has adopted new stadards for class placement and advancment. Beginning this year, freshmen will be placed in Algebra 1 based on the SAT 9. Students will be placed in Math A or Math Techniques based on the results of a math department test.

The math department is also continuing its policy of requiring students to attain a "C" or better in a math class to advance to the next level. A "D" will satisfy the graduation requirements, but will not allow the student to advance.

RC girls make history

By Joe Dastagirzada
Sports Writer

River City history has been made! The River City girls' varsity basketball team has made the playoffs for the first time, ending up the number 16 seed. They will play the number one team Bear River tomorrow at Bear River.

The RC girls finished the season with an overall record of 7-15 and 3-9 in league play. In league games they swept Lindhurst and and beat Golden Sierra once.

Danielle Meaux was this year's leading scorer, averaging 17.3 points per game. She is also the leading rebounder. Sabrina Singh is this year's leading assister, averaging 7.2 assists per game.

Marie Vasi is the team's only senior. Marie was the second leading rebounder and the team's best defensive player. Marie has played basketball all her four years at RC, and will leave the school on a high note. Coach Brite said she and the rest of the team will greatly miss her attitude, work ethic, and character.

Asked what she thinks of this year's team, Coach Brite replied, "The team worked very well together. They were very disciplined and dedicated, and stuck together as a team."

Coach Brite hopes "that this team puts forth extra time on their own to improve their individual skills. "She said she expects to have a strong senior class next year led by Sabrina Singh and Danielle Meaux.

Sabrina Singh and Delilah Arch both said, "This year's team had a lot of potential and talent. We worked together as a team, and became a family." Both players plan to play next year and hope to win more games.

Today's our last game
Our last glimmer of this season.
Let's make it a game to remember.
Let's remember what we've learned and remember our main concern.
Let's play for ourselves-
Let's play as we know how-
Let's play to our new tradition and receive our rightful recognition.
Let's all play together-
Let's all play our best-
Then we just let the ball do the rest.

Boys play terrific season despite disappointments

By Danielle Meaux
Sports Writer

River City boys' varsity basketball finished the season last Friday with a great win over Lindhurst, 74-65. Lead scorers and rebounder were Victor Valdivia who had 36 points and Malcolm Floyd who had 17 points and 16 rebounds. Matt Sidhu added 11 points to seal the win.

The Raiders suffered some disappointing losses to Marysville 66-58, Colfax 48-40, and Encina 98-55, but they did have some huge wins. They topped Golden Sierra with a 70-55 win. Lead scorers were Victor Valdivia with 34 points and Malcolm Floyd with 10 points. In an 82-76 win over Lincoln in double overtime, Malcolm Floyd went down in third quarter with a ten-stitch cut, but the team pulled together for a great win. Matt Sidhu added a little spark to the team in the fourth quarter by adding 14 points to the score.

Happy that they made playoffs, they were still a little disappointed in their record. "We lost a few games we should've played better in," said Coach West.

The Raiders finished with an overall record of 12-16 and a league record of 5-7. Even with a few disappointments, they played a terrific season.

Boxing great, RC alum returns to speak to class

Willie Jorrin, a 1987 graduate from River City, returned to speak to a R.E.A.C.H. class about education, success, support, and many other things.

By Marie Vasi
Staff Writer

On Thursday, February 12, Mr. Baker's REACH class had a very special guest speaker, professional prize fighter Willie Jorrin, a former River City student. 1987 River City graduate, Guillermo "Willie" Jorrin, undefeated with a 12-0 record including ten knock-outs, will fight Eric Morales for the Lightweight World Championship in six weeks.

Jorrin started his boxing career early in his life as an after school activity. Starting in 1984, every day he would go to Bryte Gym and practice. "All the practice just started my life in boxing," Jorrin said. From there on, Jorrin went on to compete against fighters from around the world. He has traveled all around the United Sates and to seven other countries.

Some of Jorrin's accomplishments include winning ten amateur fights, and being Golden Glove Champ for three years. He also competed for a spot in the '92 Olympics, but lost in the final round. Jorrin's present goal is to become the Lightweight World Champion.

"My parents said if I didn't get good grades, I couldn't box."

--Willie Jorrin

During Thursday's presentation, Jorrin spoke on a more personal note about his high school years. He spoke kindly about River City, saying that everyone was very caring: the teachers, faculty, students and those on the school board were always there to support him, and everyone wanted him to strive to be the best. "School and boxing were my life," Jorrin stated with a thoughtful smile.

"My parents said if I didn't get good grades, I couldn't box," he continued. Jorrin's parents always pushed him to work hard. It was with his self-discipline and the help of his family and friends, that put Jorrin where he is today.

He wants to use his success as a fighter to give back to his community.

Currently Jorrin is working on starting a gym in West Sacramento, Champs Boxing Gym. Champs will be a non-profit organization that can help kids get interested in boxing, and provide the training they need.

Keep an eye out for Champs Gym on Rice Avenue, and let's wish Jorrin the best of luck on becoming World Champ.

James Marshall grad member of state Assembly

By Rishi Sharma
Editor in Chief

Picture a straight "C" student in high school who plays basketball, but works to help support his family. He is a blue-collar kid who comes from a working-class family. He isn't rich, but isn't destitute. He isn't a jock, or a gangster, or a nerd. Just an average student who gets mostly C's.

Can you imagine this student becoming a member of the California State Assembly? Mr. Larry Bowler (R-Elk Grove), a self-described "average student" who attended West Sacramento schools and graduated from James Marshall High School in 1957.

41 years later, RC, the successor of his alma matter, is nominated to be a blue ribbon school by the State of California. A banner headline in the Sacramento Bee alerts Mr. Bowler and he sends a letter of congratulations to Dr. White.

Mr. Bowler was one of the first students to attend the newly constructed James Marshall High School in 1954 as a sophomore and recalls the school being about 600 students, but wasn't sure of the exact figure, commenting, "It was forty years ago, you know."

Students driven to give blood

78 registered and 62 gave blood in the River City blood drive on February 10.

By Gulshan Yusufzai
Staff Writer

As the needle pierced Sadia Ashraf's arm, she thought, "I could make a difference in saving a person's life. Plus, I get a chance to miss one period of class." Wow, what a deal!

River City held its annual blood drive on February 6 for the the Sacramento Blood Centers.

According to Ms. Brite a total 62 of the 78 registered gave blood. Now the question would be "Why?"

Tony Venditti said, "I gave blood to help save a life because when I was young I had a blood transfusion and if wasn't for the blood donors I wouldn't be alive."

There is talk of holding two blood drives next year. Many students seem to agree with the idea of two blood drives. Melinda Luara said, "This would be a great idea, especially since students are willing to give blood."

Giving blood from his vein, Tony was in much pain.

Love Week a success

By Angela Kasting
Staff Writer

River City saw it's first Love Week February 10-14. Various activities took place. Tuesday morning brought us our annual Blood Drive. The Sacramento Blood Bank collected 62 units of blood. On Tuesday the freshman class hosted "The Couples Game." Winners of first lunch were Tony Venditti and Sara Penrod; winners of second lunch were Robin Shofner and Travis Brown. The couples were treated to dinner at Club Pheasant.

At lunch on Wednesday we all watched the sophomore class host Boxer Races: people racing across the quad with theirs pants around their ankles and their boxers blowing in the breeze. The winner of first lunch was Sal Huizar; for second lunch the winner was Javes Figueroa. The two had a play-off, and Javes won. They both won a pair of heart-decorated boxers.

Thursday was a rather dreary day, but the rain didn't wash out what the junior class had planned for us. They forked out $100 to bring us karaoke. Students had a variety of music to choose from and The Review's own Danielle Meaux sang with three other funky divas. Many students commented that we should have karaoke monthly, even weekly. Perhaps that's an idea to consider.

Friday the 13th was to be the day of the seniors, but due to technical difficulties beyond their control, "Singled Out" was cancelled. Most students realized that on this powerful day of bad luck, it was destined to be a flop.

For those students who chose to stick around seventh period, River City hosted it's second annual Battle of the Sexes Rally. The gym was no longer divided by class, but by gender. For you kids that missed Friday's rally, the girls won.

The seniors did make a comeback on Saturday night with River City's annual Valentine's Dance. The attendance was high, and DJ Auggie Ponce (a graduate of River City) spun some phat mixes.

To round out the week, the freshman class was selling Love Grams, and ASB officers were selling dedications. Hope you had a great week!

Bowler

By his own admission, Mr. Bowler was an average student. He said, "I didn't stand out...I wasn't a jock, I wasn't a trouble maker, and I had about a 'C' average." As a high school student, he worked as a box boy at Raley's to help support his family, and played basketball, but confessed that he "wasn't very good."

Before attending here, Mr. Bowler was a student at Westacre school (now Yolo High School). He vividly recalled his principal, Mrs. Soust, as a woman who "ruled with an iron hand and seemed in my mind to be seven feet tall."

After graduating, Mr. Bowler served in the Navy for four years as a second class petty officer and then worked in a grocery store and for a grating and paving company. Ten years after graduating from high school, Mr. Bowler enrolled in Sacramento City College. There he got an A.A. in police science, then went on to get a B.A. in public administration at the University of San Francisco.

Mr. Bowler became a deputy for the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department where he worked for thirty years and three months before retiring. Mr. Bowler said he appreciates the foundation he received in West Sacramento, commenting, "Being a street kid has helped direct what I did in law enforcement and the assembly."

He also uses his experiences in West Sacramento schools on the Education Committee, commenting, "I came out of the East Yolo system with a good education. I learned right from wrong, not only facts and figures. All of that built a foundation for me. Today, kids are coming away short-changed."

Religion was also a large part of his childhood and continues to be important in his life today. Asked what lesson he would impart to young people, he responded, "Finish your education and find some principles that are higher than yourself and stick to them. The principles in all religions will help you lead a good productive life as a human being."

Commentary:

College planning should include volunteer work

By Simone Sumeshwar
Staff Writer

I'll bet many kids out there have a lot of questions about college, but they just don't know when to ask. Well take it from me, senior year is not the time.

One thing I regret as a senior is not being as prepared as I could have been for college. I was, yet I wasn't. There are so many things you should know, that you don't. So I'll tell you about some things that I've learned.

First of all, high school students can attend a community college while enrolled in high school, as long as your classes are scheduled after school or on the weekends. You might do this to make up college prep classes you failed or missed in high school that are requirements for a university or state college. Fill out a college application, get permission from the principal and your parents, and you're set. The credits you earn can be used for high school graduation credits or as a head start for college credits.

Second, SAT's and ACT's are very important. You're suppose to have these scores for major universities and for many scholarships. The earlier you take them, the more chances you'll have to retake them if you want to improve your score. These tests are available through your counselor.

Of course, you know that participation in school activities and sports is important, but you won't know how important until you see the requirements for most scholarships. Not all scholarships are based on GPA Many require participants to have done community service, and it doesn't always count if you did it only 9th grade or one year of your high school years. Continuous community service, and recommendations from program organizers will be asked for.

Get involved in the community by contacting local non-profit organizations like the Somerset Nursing Center, right here in West Sac. Or you can join a club centered around volunteer work, like Key Club. Activities benefiting others will also benefit you.

Our Voices

This month's issue: Tolerance and the role it plays.

Tolerating Idiots

In order to survive high school, one definitely needs tolerance. Students have to tolerate the foolish deeds of fellow students during class, in passing periods, and during lunch.

When I'm walking in the halls trying to avoid getting hit or stepped on, the most annoying thing that happens is a group of people will stop right in front of me and start talking. These people are so rude they don't even think about other students. They will just stand around blocking the way.

Sometimes I have to resist the urge to just knock all of them over or step on their feet as I push my way past them. Not to say that every student is foolish, rude or weird. We're all individuals who do what we feel comfortable doing.

Everyone at this school interacts with people who are of different races, have different religions, dress differently or speak differently. Everyone needs to be flexible. That way there isn't a lot of friction between people.

I'm not excluding teachers. They need tolerance to actually deal with students everyday. Every class has a clown and most teachers have at least four periods to teach. I can't see why they do it, but I'm glad they do.

Of course, most people will learn to tolerate the rudeness of others, but that doesn't excuse it.

Just because people tolerate others' actions does not mean they're doormats to be stepped on.

Tolerance of students behavior, such as talking loudly in class, pushing in the halls and showing no respect toward other students, teachers, or office staff will only work for a while.

All people have a limit on their tolerance level. If they're pushed past these limits, I have no iedea what they're capable of? Anger has a way of taking over even the most tolerant of people. Hopefully, I won't be an up-close witness when someone gets pushed too far.

Vicky Rubalcava

Religious Tolerance

It would be impossible to agree with everyone. However, it is possible to tolerate everyone. Just because you don't agree with one person's idea doesn't mean you can't get along with that person..

Religion can cause a lot of problems in relationships. My parents are different religions, and it caused a lot of problems when they were first married. They have different ideas, including what religion my brother and sister and I should be brought up with, but that doesn't separate them. More people need to have relationships like this.

I know people from many religions, and I get along with all of them. I don't believe people's religious beliefs, or any other personal choices, should separate them.

People who are exposed to different ideas may discover new information that could cause them to change their own ideas. So, tolerance not only allows people to get along, but it can allow people to better themselves.

Marsha Russo

Diversity and Tolerance Go Together

River City High School is a school like no other. It is full of tolerance and free choice. You can walk down the halls and find diversity and a friend to lean on. We may not be able to walk on and off campus, but we are allowed to show our opinions through voice, style and body language without fellow students or staff talking about us in a negative way.

I like going to a school where I see students dressing totally different, couples holding hands, whether they are female and male or female and female. I'm not sure if I would find students at otherschools who wear leopard skin shirts, chains or even people with earrings coming out of every possible body part naked to the public eye.

To me, some schools don't seem to accept differences or realize that not everyone is the same. But here at RC, difference seems to be our school motto. Being different won't get you beat up or put down. It just might get you friendship with a wide variety of people.

There really is not a "normal" status here at RC. People don't care about what color your hair is, what color pants you're wearing, or what kind of clothes companies you advertise. Students like coming to a school where style doesn't matter, where it's one's personality that counts.

Jennifer Cranfield

Tolerance Should Be Universal

Tolerance is one quality everyone needs to have. Without tolerance none of us would get along. I feel on this campus everyone is very tolerant when it comes to religion. With the diversity here one might expect many fights and hatred, but not in this school.

We have as many as eight religions in this school, and everyone seems to be getting along with each other in spite of their different beliefs. This might, in fact, be one thing that makes our school one of the most civil schools in California.

I am often asked about the Muslim religion. Whenever I tell the students here about my religion their response usually is more positive than I expect. They continue to ask more about why I believe as I do.

Everyone in this school seems to want to know more about different religions. This kind of knowledge can help a person in life in many ways. This can increase their knowledge about all the different religions around the world. As a result, one would have a better understanding and get along with all the different people they come in contact with.

When Ramadan, the month of fasting, came for the Muslims everyone in this school showed respect. For example, if any of my non-Muslim friends or classmates had any food they would not eat in front of me. They would apologize any time they accidentally offered me any food. This showed a great deal of respect and was greatly appreciated.

Gulshan Yusufzai

Rishi's Rhetoric

In 1840, Horace Mann proposed what is probably the most lasting education reform in the United States--a public education system open to everyone. This public education system was the fulfillment of Thomas Jefferson's dream of an educated society that would make tyranny and oppression impossible. Today, there are many who are completely willing to permanently disable this system of public education through vouchers and other so called education reforms.

There is no doubt that education is indeed in need of reform. With the downward trend of test scores in this state over the past few decades, and a general feeling of antipathy towards the education system by the voting public, something must be done. I am not an education expert, only a student. Nevertheless, I can see that some attempts at education "reform" don't do much good.

Reform has long been a battle cry for candidates who are seeking office. In 1990 Pete Wilson used the idea of term limits to ride into office. In 1994 he used the idea of cutting off illegal immigrants from education to ride into office. In an election year when education is at the top of everyone's list, candidates for office are sure to make it the hot issue, hoping to use it to ride into office.

Every gubernatorial candidate has made education a major issue, and there are several proposed initiatives making their way towards the November ballot. These include measures like the so called Unz Initiative, that would eliminate bilingual education as we know it. There is the 95-5 initiative that would require districts of all sizes to spend no more than 5% on district administration. And the list goes on.

Much like term limits in 1990 and proposition 187 in 1994, many of these items have great appeal among the voting public in California. But, how do we know that these attempts at reform are truly valid?

Term limits seemed like a good idea to a lot of people in 1990, and so it passed. However, I doubt if many voters realized they were imposing draconian limits on legislators by requiring only a few terms and draining the capitol of much of its legislative experience. Furthermore, I wonder if the voters of California were completely aware of the health and social risks of not educating an entire group of people and allowing them to grow sick through the passage of proposition 187.

Any education reform measure must be validated as true reform. Too often, we have seen the voters of California approve a measure superficially, not realizing its full impact. In this election year, some education reform measure may prove to be a Trojan horse, destroying the public education system and shattering the noble dreams of Thomas Jefferson and Horace Mann.

Pisces 2/20 - 3/20 Happy Birthday!!! Expect tons of presents, mainly athletic gear to keep you in shape for the holiday season. That doesn't mean you can't pig out on cake, but be wary of the imminent dumping of the gatorade! Lucky Days 3/15 & 3/9

Aries 3/21 - 4/20 You're having an awesome month. Already you just stole second, and you can see yourself crossing home plate. Just don't fully depend on who's up to bat - they might let you down this month. But don't worry, the rest of your teammates will be there for you, especially when you score the winning run. Be careful not to crash into the catcher! Lucky days 3/3 & 3/21

Taurus 4/21 - 5/21 This is the month for change. Be different! Instead of always faking left and driving right, try shooting a 3! You never know, it MIGHT go in. But you will never gain anything if you don't try. Just watch out for the opposing team member right in front off you - they'll be looking to swat you. Lucky days 3/17 & 3/22

Gemini 5/22 - 6/21 I'm sorry, but this is going to be a BAD month for you. Picture yourself running down the field towards the endzone. You're wide open, and the quarterback sees you, passing you the ball. It's perfect - right to you. You're at the 30...the 20...the 10...You reach out to catch the pass, but unfortunately the ball bounces off your helmet and out of bounds. If that wasn't bad enough, you get tackled - HARD. Just remember as you're getting carried off the field that the month's almost over. Lucky days... Sorry, none for you this month.

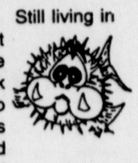
Cancer 6/22 - 7/23 You've just landed that scholarship to play tennis at the school of your dreams. Now that your future is paid for you, you can spend ail your extra dough on presents, and this will make your friends happy too. But don't be TOO generous. You may accidentally break your racket in a freak tennis accident, and have to buy a new one. Keep some money in the bank just in case. You never know when a rainy day will come along. Lucky days 3/2 & 3/6

Leo 7/24 - 8/23 Things are going great. You finally got into the right weight class and your wrestling uniform looks great on you. It's a good thing, too, because all of your friends have come to see you in action. Don't get too distracted, or you'll find yourself getting caught in a full nelson. Not only does it look really embarrassing, but it hurts - a lot. Lucky days 3/25 & 3/29

Virgo 8/24 - 9/23 It's going to be an up and down month for you. One day you'll find yourself 6 over par, and the next you'll be golfing better than Tiger Woods. Just be sure you don't pull a Happy Gilmore routine. Things will settle down before you know it, and the last thing you want to do is to get into a fight with a well-known game show host. Lucky Days 3/5 & 3/27

Libra 9/24 - 10/23 You just can't seem to get your serves over the net this month. Sure, it's annoying, but once you get into the front row, you'll be spiking like crazy. The crowd will be going wild, but in the meantime, your coaches will be tearing their hair out. Try to focus on being more consistent, and things will be going your way. The key word is practice. Once you fix what's wrong, everything will fall into place. Lucky days 3/4 & 3/24

Scorpio 10/24 - 11/22 Still living in the lime-light of last month's birthday? time to snap out of it and work on your lap time. Too much birthday cake has made you slower, and you'll never get first place for the 100-yard dash. You'll never get anywhere by jogging!! Push yourself, even if it's hard. You can't let your team down - it's all about dedication this month. It will pay off. Lucky days 3/18 & 3/23



Sagittarius 11/23 - 12/21 Why does the goalie always seem to catch all of your shots on goal, or the ball ends up banking off the goal post? It's going to be a frustrating month, but keep your emotions in check. The last thing you need is to be kicked out of the game with a red card. Your team is counting on you to be there, and sitting on the bench isn't going to help them out any. As much as you want to drop-kick one of the referees, it will be better to grin and bear it. Lucky Days 3/1 & 3/27

Capricorn 12/22 - 1/20 Hey MVP! Good job last month keeping things in line! This month watch out - Your rival team is going to try and take away your undefeated record. Don't stand for it! Stomp 'em! Lucky Days 3/30 & 3/13

Aquarius 1/21 - 2/19 There's 10 seconds left in the forth quarter, and you're up at the foul line. The score is tied - that's exactly how you're going to feel this month. But don't crack under the pressure and don't get down if you happen to air ball. Lucky Days 3/8 & 3/14

Catcher in the Rye author very private

By Kendra Drischler
Features Editor

Most tenth graders are required to read The Catcher in the Rye, a novel written in 1951 by J.D. Salinger. It is the most famous work of a writer who has been a traditional favorite of high school and college students. Holden Caulfield, the main character, wanders New York City trying to both be grown-up and save himself from the compromises of adulthood. He is easy to relate to because of his sensitivity and the authenticity of his voice. His characters' believability can be attributed to the fact that he is modeled after the author.

Jerome David Salinger was also born in New York City, on January 1, 1919. He attended public elementary schools, Valley Forge Military academy in high school, then New York University. He had his first story published when he was twenty-one. He continued to write until he was twenty-three, when he was drafted into the army. At twenty-five he was discharged and went back to writing. His short stories were very successful, published in the prestigious New Yorker, The Saturday Evening Post, Esquire, and others.

Nine stories originally published in the New Yorker were published in 1953 as Nine Stories. It also serially published his novels Franny and Zooey (1961), Raise High the Roof Beams, Carpenter and, Seymour: An Introduction (1963.) Many of the characters are members of the Glass family, and refer to what happened to characters from earlier stories. One of the better J.D. Salinger web sites, Bananafish (http://slf.gweep.net/~sfoskett/jds/index.html), has a family tree.

It also has reprints of some of his interviews. He gives very few and is almost as famous for his reclusiveness as he is for his writing. He doesn't like to give autographs because he feels that his work is what should be focussed on. Bananafish includes a 1953 interview he gave to a seventeen-year-old writer for a local New Hampshire paper, the Claremont Daily Eagle. It was republished nationally, which bothered him very much.

Salinger hates his celebrity status and curiosity about his personal life. He hasn't published officially in thirty-five years, though there have been rumors that he writes under pseudonyms. A new book will be published this spring, a repackaging of a New Yorker work, but difficult to find and a welcome crumb for his many fans.

RC staffer Mr. Ferris is coach, teacher in one

By Marsha Russo
Staff Writer

River City has a new English teacher, Mr. Jerry Ferris. Originally from Indianapolis, Mr. Ferris enjoys teaching in West Sacramento. When asked what he liked about River City, he was quick to mention several things: River City's administration is very supportive, the teachers are helpful, and there is a great variety of students.

Mr. Ferris loves teaching freshmen and sophomores English. He told me he loves to help students relate their lives to works of literature. His favorite part of his job is taking students who are having trouble in school and trying to motivate them.

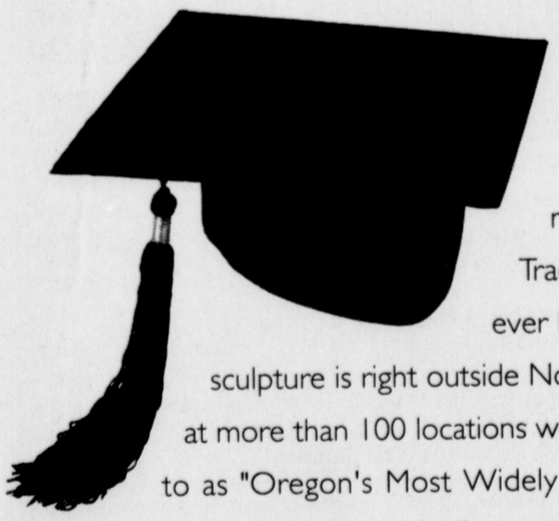
Mr. Ferris attended Ball state in Indianapolis. He received a double major in English and secondary education. From a young age,he wanted to be a teacher. All his life he was drawn to teaching. In his words it was "what I was good at."

Although some people believe that teachers lead boring lives, this is not true in this case. In his spare time Mr. Ferris enjoys hiking and mountain biking. He grew up in a family of six children and actually considers it an advantage. Growing up with only one parent, the kids had to work together and he learned the value of team work, he explains.

He also enjoys coaching and will be the assistant wrestling coach this year.

In the future Mr. Ferris plans to stay in California. He wants to stay at River City, but would like to try teaching at a university some day. For now, he is happy helping high school students here at River City.

OSU students often have the world at their fingertips.



You probably don't know Larry Kirkland. But, chances are, you've strolled by one of his sculptures. Well, maybe not the one at the Putra World Trade Center in Malaysia. But if you've ever been to Lloyd Center in Portland, his sculpture is right outside Nordstrom. In all, his works are featured at more than 100 locations worldwide. In fact, Larry's been referred to as "Oregon's Most Widely Seen Public Artist." Pretty amazing considering he originally went to Oregon State University to become a lawyer. That is, until he took a Basic Design class for his one elective and earned a degree in Environmental Design instead. The truth is, Larry is just one of many OSU success stories. Which isn't surprising when you look at how much OSU has to offer. Like the variety of programs to choose from -- everything from Merchandising Management to Computer Science to Health Promotion and Education. And there's plenty to do outside the classroom, whether you're into botany or ballroom dancing. Finding someone to do it with isn't a challenge either, since the hundreds of student organizations make it easy to hook up with people who share your interests. And to top it off, more employers recruit here than any other college in the state. Add it all together and it's easy to see how an OSU education can help to launch successful careers like Larry's.

But don't take our word for it. Check out OSU and discover how you can mold your life into a masterpiece.

Girls' varsity shows they're top dogs

Joe Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

The River City girls' varsity basketball team had a huge upset win, defeating the second place team Golden Sierra, 46-42.

River City was underdog coming into the game. River City was 2-6 in league and Golden Sierra stood at 6-1. They had only lost to Colfax who were 9-0. During the game River City showed that they were top dogs.

The leading scorer and rebounder was Danielle Meaux with 15 points and 15 rebounds. Delilah Arch was second leading scorer with 14 points, and Marie Vasi was second leading rebounder with ten rebounds. Marie was also the team's leading defensive player. She really frustrated the person she guarded. And Sabrina Singh led the team with seven assists.

Coach Brite commented, "This was a wonderful win. The girls played with intensity and aggression. They deserved and earned the victory. This was a huge upset, and our team's hard work finally paid off. I am extremely proud of them."

Sexes battle to the end at rally

By Jennifer Cranfield
Staff Writer

The Battle of the Sexes rally that took place on Friday the 13th was a battle from the beginning. River City's gym was packed from door to door with anxious students awaiting the rumble brought on by the thought of blue vs. pink.

Ms. Tyler got the rally started with the ever so funny lip-synching of the national anthem, followed by Coach Baker reving up the guys with a macho man lip-synching of "We Are the Champions." And that was just the start of a rally propelled by cheering, screaming, and laughter that brought out the true spirit of RC students and staff.

There were many different contests between the girls and guys, but one stuck out in my mind: the tug-of-war challenge. It started out eight guys against eight girls and the contest was evenly spread out. But then after the guys won two straight rounds the girls decided to give them a taste of their own medicine by letting go of the rope once the guys started to pull. The plan back- fired. The guys were winning, but the girls refused to give up. With a wave of a hand, half of the girls from the bleachers ran out to give their fellow girls a hand. That started an all-out burst of fun that led to the girls winning and the guys on top of each other in a pile on the ground.

RC cheerleaders proved that if you stick together and put time into something, you will put on a terrific performance. Right from the beginning the cheerleaders were together in spirit and it showed. That was the best dancing I have seen in my four years here. Their performance made me proud to say what school I'm from.

To provide more dancing entertainment there was Ali Reyes and his group of dancers offering RC a little bit of flavor and spunk to make the audience laugh and applaud with admiration. Then came a real big surprise when certain Renaissance teachers (who will go unnamed to protect their identity) dressed up and performed to the song "RESPECT" and got the whole crowd jumping with enthusiasm and wanting more.

River City's Battle of the Sexes rally went well overall, but I am terribly depressed to report that because of rushing out during contests, the boys were disqualified by the judges. Sorry, guys.

This rally proved that opposite sexes do come together at RC when it comes to having fun and providing entertainment.

Girls end season with loss

By Danielle Meaux
Sport's Writer

The River City Girls' jv basketball team ended the season last Thursday with a disappointing loss to Lincoln 31-27. RC finished with an overall record of 4-22 and a league record of 1-12.

In spite of winning only one league game, the jv girls had some very close games. They lost to Golden Sierra by only seven points for a 36-29 loss. The Raider girls also had a huge upset when they lost to Lindhurst in the final seconds of the game 35-35. The Raiders did, however, get revenge on Encina from a one-point loss earlier in the season by beating them the second time 43-41. Jennifer Gabourie hit her free throws to seal the game.

This is a very young team, all of whom are freshmen, and they've really improved throughout the season.

"We have to work together as a team and have commitment and we will improve even more for next season," said coach Cathy Costanza. We look forward to watching these girls next season when they're all sophomores.

Boys' up and down season ends 10-14

By Joe Dastagirzada
Staff Writer

Coach Jamie King and the River City boys' jv basketball team finished the season with an overall record of 10-14 and 3-9 in league play. In league play the jv boys tied the season series with Golden Sierra, Encina, and Lincoln at one apiece, but were swept by Marysville, Colfax, and Lindhurst.

In league games, the leading scorer and assist man was Javes Figueroa #23 averaging 15.2 points per game, with 48 total assists. Zafai Niazi #21was second leading scorer averaging 10.7 points per game. Leading rebounder was Andrew Hoekstra #14 who had 51 total rebounds, averaging 4.6 per game.

Coach King said, "This year's team has faced a tremendous amount of adversity. At times, they looked at the challenge and stepped up. However, there were too many times when this team walked away from an opportunity. The players who did give their all know who they are. I hope those who didn't work hard realize the opportunity they missed. Next year's team has the potential to be extremely competitive, but it is going to require that they dedicate themselves to the game and the program!"

Softball gets Hall

By Danielle Meaux
Sports Writer

The varsity girls' softball team has a new head coach. Rick Hall, after three years as the jv coach, will replace Coach Hanagan who took on the golf coach duties.

Although practice has been limited due to rain, Coach Hall has managed to choose a team.

M.E.Ch.A. having a ball in May

By Simone Sumeshwar
Staff Writer

The Movimiento Estudiantil Chicano de Aztlan, or MEChA, dedicated to the advancement of Latinos, now has over 70 members and has been on campus for only one year!

This month, MEChA club members are discussing the upcoming MEChA Ball, which will be held on May 23. MEChA students from all over the Sacramento area are welcome to come and the money raised will be used to give scholarships to two senior students (one female and one male) at each participating school.

Exceptional students active in school and in MEChA will be featured on full-sized Stay in School posters, which will be distributed to the businesses in West Sacramento. The posters will offer parents a number to call for answers to their questions about anything and let the local community see what MEChA students are doing.

To learn more about MEChA, look for the first newsletter coming out March, or contact Mr. McPherson in the office.

Club opens door to self-fulfillment

By Simone Sumeshwar
Staff Writer

If you're looking for an opportunity to get involved in the community and meet a lot of new people, you might want to look into River City Key Club.

The 25 members in this year's Key Club participate in a variety of activities. In December and January, Key Clubbers sold candles and cookies, raising money to purchase bike helmets for the young children in West Sacramento. They will be given out in May at the Bike Safety Seminar put together by Key Club, the West Sacramento Fire and Police Departments and other members of the community.

Key Club programs include tutoring at Golden State Middle School and Just For Kids, which provides outings for children whose parents have cancer. There are also service projects like the American River clean-up, tree planting, and senior yard clean-ups.

Besides the good feeling you get from working in the Key Club, you are also offered scholarship opportunities from the Kiwanis International Foundation, sponsor of high school Key Clubs. You can also use your activities from the Key Club as community service required by many private organizations for scholarships.

Senior Lina Afridi said, "Key Club offers a lot more than people think. It's something you should get involved in as soon as possible." If you're interested in joining Key Club, see Ms. Susan Gossard in the office.

In uniform

Marine Pvt. Gustavo G. Canas, a 1997 graduate of River City High School of West Sacramento, recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

Canas successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Canas and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Canas spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Canas and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values -- honor, courage and commitment, and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

Canas and fellow recruits ended the training phase with The Crucible, a 54-hour team effort, problem solving evolution which culminated with an emotional ceremony in which the recruits were presented the Marine Corps Emblem, and were addressed as "Marines" for the first time since boot camp began.

Canas joins 41,000 men and women who will enter the Marine Corps this year from all over the country.

Herrera

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class James F. Herrera, son of John Romero and Cristina Hernandez-Romero of West Sacramento, recently visited Port Blair, India, while on a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Indian oceans aboard the dock landing ship USS Comstock.

During the port visit, crewmembers from Herrera's ship hosted more than 1,000 Indian natives and also participated in a volleyball match with an Army unit stationed in Port Blair.

Herrera's ship supports amphibious operations using Landing Craft Air Cushions (LCAC's), conventional landing craft and helicopters to transport Marines onto hostile shores.

The graduate of River City High School joined the Navy in August 1995.

Preventing the loss of a pet: chip implant

From Westside Veterinary Hospital West Sacramento

Tragically, many pets lost their homes or even their lives during last year's storms. In spite of heroic efforts by volunteers, many pets could not be reunited with their owners. Now, a small microchip device may be able to prevent that from happening during this year's rains. The microchip, which is about the size of a pencil lead, is placed between the pets' shoulder blades, very similar to a routine vaccination. The microchip bears a number code which is unique to each pet and registered to its owner. The local animal shelters have scanners which can read the chip and return the pet to its owner, even in situations where the collar has been lost.

Many people are unaware of the dangers of antifreeze. If you "winterize" your car, be sure you clean up any antifreeze spills completely. Even a few licks are fatal to a cat. Even better, use a less toxic product such as Sierra Freeze.

The wet weather has also brought a resurgence of fleas, which at best are mildly irritating, or at worst may cause allergies. Fortunately, the last few years have brought some relief in the form of new flea products. Two types of newer generation flea products are currently available. Both are given monthly and are thus very user friendly. One is a flea hormone inhibitor which will effectively prevent fleas from becoming established in the home environment. It is given in pill form. The other was developed as a crop pesticide and will kill fleas on contact before they have a chance to bite. This product is ideal for flea allergic pets. It is available as a liquid that is placed directly on the skin as a single application. Both of these newer types of flea products are far less toxic than the older sprays and powders, which are still effective if used diligently, that is, every other day.

Lastly, some of our older pets have a hard time with arthritis when it gets wet and cold. Recently, a new arthritis medication became available for dogs, called Rimadyl. It is in the same group of medications as aspirin, but does not have the potential for causing stomach ulcers; which has been the factor that has prevented pet health care professionals from using aspirin at the doses that are sometimes needed for adequate pain relief. It is available as a prescription medication.

Delta Queen featured on PBS show

On March 6 the story of the legendary Delta Queen comes to "California's Gold," the acclaimed PBS television program with producer/host Huell Howser. This world famous steamboat ran nightly between San Francisco and Sacramento (with her running mate the Delta King) from 1927 to 1940. Inspiration for the TV show comes from the book "King & Queen of the River" by award-winning author Stan Garvey.

Last summer, Huell Howser and his cameraman came aboard the Delta Queen to film the festivities of her 50th anniversary cruise. This milestone event celebrated a half century since the boat came to the Mississippi in 1947. Walking the decks, Huell interviewed aficionados and old-timers about their part in the Queen's remarkable history that began in California. With action shots of the paddlewheel, calliope, engine room, jazz band, this promises to be a lively show.

Identical twin to the Queen, the restored Delta King now serves as a floating hotel at Sacramento after a tortured post-war life, including two sinkings, two fires, a midnight piracy, and a Canadian landlocking.

The show airs Friday, March 6, at 5 p.m. on KVIE-TV, Channel 6, Sacramento. It will be shown on other PBS stations, including Fresno, Redding, and the three Bay Area channels. Watch your TV listings for specific dates and times. "California's Gold" is widely endorsed by teachers, school, library, and historical associations and societies.

Tapes of the program may be purchased by calling (800) 266-5727. The book "King & Queen of the River" can be found at gift shops in many historical and maritime museums. It's also available by calling (800) 852-4890.
